NAONE JURY IS SWORN

And Then Given Liberty With an Admonition Till Monday.

M. W. Parkhurst, F. W. Macfarlane, Jr., W. L. Austin, B. Guerrero, C. A. G. Maertens, E. L. Sharratt, C. H. Ramsay, E. T. Dreier, John M. Aiu, Chas. E. Frasher, Joseph Richards and David Douglas.

So stands the jury sworn to try Philip H. Naone for the murder of his wife on the 8th of October last. It was pronounced satisfactory by counsel for the defendant at 2:23 yesterday afternoon, with two challenges for the defense not having been exercised.

Attorney General Andrews previously, before accepting the jury for the prosecution, asked if he might do so tentatively and then exercise his last challenge providing the last one or two challenges of the defense rendered the jury unsatisfactory to the prosecution. He cited an Idaho decision in support of such a privilege, but Messrs. Dunne and Thompson objected decidedly, saying, "This is not Idaho," and Judge De Bolt declined to take any chances on the proposed departure from the practice adopted at the opening of peremptory challenges, that of one for the prosecution and two for the defense alternately.

The Attorney General then, after consultation with Messrs. Brown and Cathcart, declared the jury satisfactory to the prosecution. Counsel for the defense, also after consultation, followed suit, as already stated.

At a short recess, before the jury was sworn, court and counsel had their heads together and agreed that it would be best not to begin the actual trial that day, today being a jury holiday, and it was agreed to have the trial continued till Monday.

LIBERTY FOR JURORS.

Judge De Bolt when the jury had been sworn addressed it in substance as follows: "Gentlemen: Our Legislature, at its late regular session, has passed a law which is quite an innovation. That is, in reference to locking up juries in murder cases. It has been the practice for hundreds of years, and in every State in the Union until recent years when the law has been changed in some States, to lock up juries in cases involving the death penalty. You, gentlemen, know what a hardship it has been to jurors, as well as expense to the Territory to have jurors locked up for weeks or even months.

"As I remarked a few days ago, this statute is doing away with one of many relics of barbarism in criminal jurisprudence. A great many years ago it was the practice to fine or imprison jurors who failed to bring in a verdict. For years after that juries were locked up by the bailiff under orders that they should be kept without meat or drink, candle or fire. It is now long since this relic of barbarism also has been abolished. I simply mention this to show you how the Anglo-Saxon people have advanced. The more the principles of justice are understood the greater the latitude accorded to the individual.

"The enactment of this statute has been regarded by some people as a dangerous innovation. I do not so regard it, but rather as a sign of advancing enlightenment and civilization. While, however, it is an advance of liberty, it brings its responsibilities. Juries with their increased freedom should so act that there will be no occasion for a succeeding Legislature to repeal the law. This is the first case in this Territory in which a jury has been sworn to try a charge of murder since the enactment of this statute. It is therefore very important that there should be no slip on the part of any juror or anybody else connected with the court which would tend to induce any future Legislature to repeal this statute."

Judge De Bolt then read the enactment referred to, calling attention to a proviso that gives the court power to lock up a jury if circumstances, in its discretion, demanded. In conclusion, he remarked upon the great importance of the case, both to the Territory and to the defendant, and admonished the jurors to hold aloof from all outside influences during the trial. They were not to talk to anyone else, not even at their homes. If anyone approached them in conversation about the case it would be their duty to report the offender to the court.

The jury was then excused until Monday morning at 10 o'clock.

THAT CABLE MUST NOW BE SOLD

By an oral decision, rendered at the hearing, the Supreme Court yesterday sustained Judge Robinson in holding that the Rapid Transit Co. did not have a lien on a certain wire cable in the plant of the Pacific Heights Railway Co. On account of the appeal from Judge Robinson the cable was withheld from the bondholders' foreclosure sale of the plant.

Under the deed of trust the Pacific Heights Co. was allowed to sell any material that had become unfit for use. It appears that this cable was a "feed wire," which not being needed in the plant was never used. Therefore the court held that it was not material excepted from the portions of the plant covered by the mortgage. Whether the sale of the rest of the plant be confirmed or not—a question still pending on appeal—the cable will now have to be sold under the mortgage.

LONG TRIAL IS ENDED

Testimony of Elevator Experts in Young Hotel Case.

In the ejectment case of Kaalona vs. Kaana, after a trial of several days, the jury yesterday afternoon returned a verdict for the defendant. C. F. Peterson for the plaintiff noted an appeal.

Judgment was given by Judge Lindsay for plaintiff in the assumpsit suit of H. Hackfeld & Co., Ltd., vs. Kohala & Hilo Railroad Co., Ltd., defendant, and August Humburg and Louisa K. Andrews, garnishees, the total amount being $529.76.

In the assumpsit suit of Liu Shee vs. Mrs. Kaumaka Walker, judgment was given by Judge Lindsay for plaintiff in the total sum of $109.

By J. J. Dunne, her attorney, Elizabeth J. Knight, guardian of the person of the minor and a party to the proceedings, moves for a continuance of the hearing of the matter of the guardianship of Annie T. K. THE ELEVATOR CASE.

Some notable persons are to furnish testimony in the damage suit for the death of a child brought by Antonio Camillo against Alexander Young Building Co., Ltd. They are Horner Smith, Ph. D., professor of language in Ursinus College, Collegeville, Pa., M. R. Schlichter, superintendent Stokes & Parrish Elevator Co., Philadelphia; John V. Miller of Edison Laboratory, Orange, N. J., and A. G. Mills (or Mill), vice president Otis Elevator Co., New York City. Their testimony is wanted on the question of whether single-door elevators in the great cities are fitted with cage doors. Commissions to take the testimony of these experts have issued to Albert L. Lewis, Philadelphia, and Nathan A. Smyth, New York City.

POSSESSION GIVEN.

High Sheriff Wm. Henry makes return on a writ of possession, showing that he has removed J. K. Kaahua from certain premises at Koneula, Kapalama, Honolulu, containing an area of 27,099 square feet, and placed in full possession thereof Minnie Wai-koloa and Nancy Wilson, a minor, by her attorney, C. F. Clemens.

Republican primary election to-night.

"KIDNAPPED" SEEN BY LARGE AUDIENCE

The Ellefords jumped to the melodrama last night and upheld their reputation for versatility. "Kidnapped" was produced and met with decided favor from a crowded house. Few melodramas have such effective scenery and in such good order. The play is quick in action, lively in interest and the comedy excellent. Pietro Sosso is bright and easy as Louie Rheinhold, Miss Anna Dodge is quite natural as the good hearted Irish woman Maggie. George Hernandez came to the front as Michael McMooney, the policeman, his brogue being rich and his acting quite realistic. Chas. Adler is a capital melodramatic villain. Wm. Marion gave a good account of himself as Phillip Northcote, the artist. As the persecuted heroine, Miss Due did all that was required of her, and Miss Lamont made the most of Annie Blake. Frank Howe gave a neat bit of character work as Nosey, a thief. Miss Selwyn again showed her ability in the soubrette role of Daisy and her specialty made a hit. The scenic effects were good, especially the Brooklyn Bridge and the kidnapping in the back.

Kidnapped will be repeated tonight. At the matinee this afternoon "My Friend from India" will be presented.

Good work at the primaries means a safe ticket at the polls.

Aluminum Horse Shoes.
In the Russian army aluminum horseshoes are said to have been tried with good results. A few horses in the Finland dragoons were first chosen, and shod with one aluminum shoe and three iron shoes each. The experiments showed that the aluminum shoes preserved the foot better than the iron ones.

His Suggestion.

"The wages of sin," said the speaker, "is death."
"I'm in favor of startin' a strike to have 'em raised," yelled the walking delegate, suddenly waking up.—Chicago Record-Herald.
